Dear Gene:

Admiral Turner has referred to me your letter of 25 November concerning intelligence assistance to USEUCOM. As you know, I met earlier this week with Linc Faurer to discuss his needs and our ability to meet them by providing a CIA analytical cell. As Linc outlined it, the creation of such a cell would require us to provide four professional positions as well as clerical support. In a world where resources are unlimited, this would probably be a reasonable request, but given our present situation, I do not feel we could afford to make such a commitment. I have told Linc that we would be willing to enter into an arrangement similar to that which we have used to provide intelligence support to CINCPAC and to SAC. In essence, this would involve the assignment of a senior intelligence officer and secretary/communicator to USEUCOM. As I understand Linc's needs, this would go a long way toward bringing about closer interface between the field and the national intelligence community, but obviously would fall short of augmenting Linc's own independent analytical capability.

I have communicated this to Linc in a phone conversation today and he will report it when he returns to Europe. If you would like to hold further discussions on the question, or have [redacted] do so, I would be delighted to meet with them.

Sincerely,

25X1

Admiral Stansfield Turner, USN
Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, DC 20505

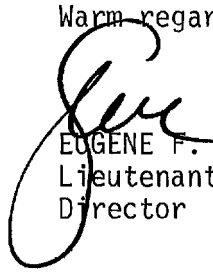

Dear Admiral Turner:

In response to your letter of 17 October 1977 concerning intelligence assistance to USEUCOM, the Chairman asked that I contact you in order to initiate further discussions at the working level. Suggest that [REDACTED] DIA/DP, meet with representatives of your staff as soon as possible to discuss the CIA analytical-cell support concept. As a first step, our staffs might look at the specific purposes of such a cell and possible alternate solutions for providing improved support to USEUCOM.

To get the benefit of Linc Faurer's thinking on this matter, I believe it would be helpful if your staff could set the meeting for the week of 28 November - 2 December 1977, while Linc is in Washington.

Warm regard,

EUGENE F. TIGHE, JR.
Lieutenant General, USAF
Director
